Planets D6 / Haeli

Haeli

Haeli is a small badly polluted chunk of rock just within the Palvar Sector. The planet is owned by Temere Robotics and is sued for heavy manufacturing of various droids, droid parts, and cybernetic equipment. The planet's landmass is 85% covered by megaloppolis style urban sprawl. The cityscape is like a tisted and horrific version of Nar Shadda. The building all reach up hudnreds of stories and mesh into a network of walkways, overhangs, and ramps. Ninety percent of the buildings are industrial compelxes which release chemcials into the water or into the air. The skies are a dull shade of green and clouds always hang voerhead. Acid rain is the only kind of percipitation left.
