

Starships D6 / RanCorp Diamond Tipped

RanCorp Diamond Tipped Warhead

These warheads are high yield warheads with the firepower approximately of a concussion missile. The warheads are fast but have a limited range. The main feature that makes this warhead so special is the diamond encasing at the nose of the warhead. The armor strengthens the warhead's ability to resist attempts to destroy it. The reflective diamond tip severely limits the chance of laser fire destroying the missile before it hits its target. These weapons though expensive can cause lots of damage because of their inability to be stopped.
