Description: In many ways the F-Series Battle Droid is a combination of the Super Battle Droid, the standard Trade Federation Battle Droid and the Destroyer Droids. This four armed droid, is a standard Battle Droid, with extra armour plating, and its additional two arms equipped with the same Twin Repeating Blasters that the Destroyer Droids were armed with. This arrangement made the droid extremely versatile, allowing it to pilot vehicles at the same time as using its own weapons. However by the late stage in the Clone Wars this droid was introduced it made no significant impact on the battlefield, and few survived the end of the wars.
