Game Notes: This small unit can be worn on a belt and projects an holographic image over an existing real world object or living creature. The image projected had to be at least the same size as the wearer, but is highly detailed and moved with the object or person covered, Its memory capacity can store five holographic image and it can operate for 4 hours before recharging, though it's possible to hook it up to a larger power supply. The holo-projection is almost perfect and even moves as the item or person shrouded moves. It takes a Difficult search roll to detect a fake, though sensors, cameras and droids get a +2D bonus to detect it.
