Earthdawn / Hill Chicken

Name: Hill Chicken
LP: 40 (60)
Description: Hill chickens are an unusual flightless bird/snake hybrid that tends to live in the mountains. Hill chickens come in flocks usually of one cock or rooster and several hens, though sometimes a group of males is encountered. They eat anything, sometimes including things which are not edible, tend not to be very bright, and are often aggressive. Roosters are about half the size of a man, and hens smaller. They fortunately taste rather like their domestic cousins. They attack by pecking or slashing with their sharp feet, or can swing their sturdy tail in a non damaging but knockdown inducing attack.
