Rate of Fire: Semiautomatic (1)

Ammo: 10 (darts, magazine-fed)

Cost: 678 cR

Availability: 2, R

Range: 1-5/10/20

Range Difficulty: Easy/Moderate/Difficult

Damage: 6D+2 (Stun)

Special: Nonlethal; Paralyze

GAME NOTES:

-AMMO TYPES: While the Narq-Dart Pistol utilizes nonlethal darts for training and other purposes, it can use other kinds of darts, such as poison, etc. Ask GM for details.

-NONLETHAL: Damage from this weapon will not kill a human target unless hit in a critical spot such as the eye or temple. Such a shot requires +2 Range Difficulty Levels to the attack (Example: Short range goes from Easy to Difficult). Armor, energy shields and other defenses and protection that cover such areas makes this impossible, however.

-PARALYZE: Taking damage from this weapon incurs paralysis for 3D+2 rounds. A Heroic Stamina roll per Round per D can negate this (to a minimum of 5 rounds). Note that the Stun effect may make this extremely difficult.

-STUN DAMAGE: This weapon normally deals stun damage, as per the rules in the WEG Star Wars D6 RPG rulebook.

DESCRIPTION

???The weapon was used by the Spartan-IIs during their training on Reach when they were around 12 to 13 years old. The pistol was issued to the Spartan-IIs by Chief Petty Officer Franklin Mendez when they were fighting Tango Company in Capture the Flag.

?? The weapon uses compressed air to fire a narq-dart capsule. The effective range is 20 meters (60 feet), and on impact, it could "drop a rhino in its tracks". Linda is also noted for replacing the the tip of her Sniper Rifle's ammunition with narq-dart capsules, only fatal when shot in the temple or eye. Fhajad was the Spartan who modified the sniper rifle rounds with the Narq-dart capsules.
