Background on Trance Gemini

She manifests a startling ability to predict possible outcomes. Can she see the future, or is she just adept at making lucky guesses? Only Trance knows for sure, and she's not talking. Trance serves as life support officer as well as the crew's botanist, xenobiologist, make-do medic, and when necessary, spy and thief.

Last year she had a little encounter with her "future self" and ended up trading places with her. So she may look a little different than you remembered, but she's still the same Trance - just a little older... with some alternate history in her past... and different skin color...

It's like this. Things in the future are bad, really bad, and getting worse. The future I have seen is a place no one wants to live in. Yes, there is one possibility for a perfect future but I haven't see it yet. I can't say anymore about it. The future. If I do it would be dangerous for me and for you.

Quote: “I believe in causality. That we each have multiple fates. And that every decision we face represents a branching of reality. As we make choices in life, we limit our possible realities, inevitably determining our final destinies." Roleplaying Trance Gemini

Not much is known about the one called Trance Gemini. None of the crew of the Andromeda has ever seen her species before. She is energetic and cheerful and appears to have slight prescient abilities--she was able to find the planet that Dylan and Rommie were imprisoned on and she won a vast amount of money when gambling.
