We are the God-Blooded Descendents of the Gods

We channel Essence, the power of the cosmos, through our fingertips, our fists, our feet. Our blades are cast of Orichalcum, set with Hearthstones and never dull. We are the descendents of the very gods themselves.

Mortals touched by a greater power, God-Blooded are half mortal characters whose other half comes from gods, and has given them a touch of greatness. Their destinies will never match up to The Exalted, but among mortals they could be heroes or villains of a higher caliber.

Orichalcum Reinforced Breastplate (Exalted p346) Xena?s Past

Xena carries the features of both her parents in about equal measure. She has his mother?s dark straight hair, but her father?s blue eyes. She is relatively tall and slender, with an uncertain radiance.

There has been much speculation as to Xena's parentage. After all, Xena has many skills, so many, goes the thinking, that she has to be at least half god. And who more likely to father a warrior like Xena than Ares, the God of War?

Xena's father of record is Atreus, her mother's husband (and most probably the father of Xena's two brothers). He disappeared when Xena was about seven years old; until the events told in THE FURIES, she believed that he had deserted the family. We now know that Atreus, a warrior of some note, had come home from Ares' temple in a rage, and had tried to kill Xena. Xena's mother killed him to save her daughter's life. These events are not as clear-cut as they may seem, however. What had Atreus learned from Ares to put him in such a blind rage? And why was he so determined to kill his young daughter?
