Goat demons are roughly human sized, and have a somewhat scrawny appearance and a goatlike head, generally dressed in rags or robes and with a staff they walk with (goat demons have a slow limping walk). While somewhat stronger and tougher than they look, goat demons are not physical threats. They are however devious tacticians and are spellcasters of varying ability. Goat demons prefer to fight only when they have sufficient minions between them and their enemies, and will sometimes use their magic to disguise themselves when carrying out their plans. Goat demons often lead gaggles of other demons or monsters or crude Namegivers, or are seen working for others.

It is reputed that not all goat demons attack to kill, it is said some have very unsavory appetites.

Presented here are 6 different power levels of goat demons, with representative spells goat demons might choose. Goat demons will know some or all (or completely different ones from listed) spells of their rank and lower. They do not need spell matrices, and suffer no ill effects from raw casting.
