Description: The Lothal astromech droid was a model of astromech droid manufactured by Lothal Logistics Limited. Although they were not considered to be on par with the more advanced astromech models from Industrial Automation, Lothal astromech droids were considered to be decent enough droids. The droids had mostly white bodies, and had transparent domes that revealed some of their inner mechanisms much like Industrial Automatons R3-series Astromech droid. An Ugnaught salesman who sold jogan fruits on the planet Lothal had a Lothal astromech, which was kicked onto its back by Galactic Empire stormtroopers when they harassed the Ugnaught. The duo's problems were solved when the Lasat Garazeb Orrelios beat up the stormtroopers. The droids could also be found on the planet Garel.
