

Races D6 / Crucem

Crucem

The Crucem were originally thought to be evil Daemons of the Darkside that preyed on helpless spacefarers as far back as the time of the Old Republic. They are actually a race of marauding pirates, a sort of intergalactic horde. They come from just outside the galaxy, in the area known as the expanse and are natural enemies of the Saiya-Jin race. Crucem partially gained their reputation from their appearance.

They stand up to just over eight feet tall with a skeletal frame accented by a bone white carapace. Their skin is a maroon colour that makes it almost look like muscle, especially since it's so taut that their powerful muscles bulge. The bone white carapace covers along the fronts and backs of the legs and arms, then like a strange ribcage over the front and back of the torso and over the head. Their eyes are white corneas and silver dollar sized black pupils, inset into their head, accented even more heavily by the carapace around them. They have long spikes coming off their elbows up along the backs of their arms, and from their knees up the front of their legs. Their hands have five long fingers which the carapace comes out over and extends in long powerful claws capable of rending flesh with ease.

The Crucem are incredibly strong and fast, capable of tearing an armoured soldier apart as if he were a soft bellied animal. They are also actually very smart despite their brute appearance. They are technologically advanced, though this is partially because they've constantly stolen technologies from others.

They are excellent pilots and technicians. The Crucem feed off Chaos, they thrive on it. They have an insatiable bloodlust which compels them to savage violence. Even the ruthless Saiya-Jin are wary of the Crucem and only battle them when they have the upper hand.
