Planets D6 / Twon Ketee

Name: Twon Ketee
Atmosphere: Toxic
Primary terrain: Jungles, Swamps
Native flora: Trees
Fauna: Rathtars

Description: Twon Ketee was a toxic swamp planet that was home to rathtars.

A planet covered in thick jungles and swamps, Twon Ketee was inhabited by rathtars. Its atmosphere was toxic, requiring a breath mask.

Prior to the Battle of Naboo, an alien hunter was hired to lead a group of hunters to the planet, where they were all killed by a rathtar. The Sith apprentice Darth Maul had also traveled to Twon Ketee, watching the hunters from afar. Once the rathtar had been drawn out into the open, Maul killed it with a vibro-ax. He killed several more of the creatures, attempting to sate his bloodlust for Jedi.

Twon Ketee was one of the locations marked on a First Order holo-map retrieved by the Resistance spy Kazuda Xiono during his mission on the Colossus.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from Wookieepedia
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.