Races D6 / Jacrona

Jacrona

One of the races created by the ancient and mysterious Alpha Race. It is believed that, The Alpha Race existed somewhere around 8,000 years before Emporer Palpatine's rise to power. They were masters of genetic engineering and biological sciences. Rather than using droids to perform tasks, they designed organisms and even sentient beings to perform the tasks needed.

The Alpha Race engineered several known races then bred them together to get new races and seeded them across the galaxy to spawn hybrids and new races in an exponential propogation. The Alpha Race dissapeared without a trace from the galaxy.

The Jacrona were originaly created to be recorders. They were created with advanced mental capabilities, mainly centered around memory. They can recall everything they experience in total perfection. They can play it back in their minds like a tape. The Jacrona were believed to be an early design and are phyiscaly inferior to many other races.
