Description: The Pinnace-class Geonosian Corvette was a sleek cruiser used by the Separatists during the Clone Wars.

The Pinnace corvette is lightly armed and armored, meant for scouting and escort duties in far-flung outer sectors.

It had a design and color scheme similar to Geonosian vehicles, so it is assumed that the Geonosians made this craft for the navy of the Confederacy of Independent Systems like the Nantex-class starfighters, and it bore a slight resemblance to an elongated Venator-class Star Destroyer. Nothing is known about the ship itself, except that it was capable of operating inside an atmosphere. Ships of this class were present at the battles of Geonosis and Kashyyyk.
The ship first appeared in [Star Wars: Republic Commando]. It is also briefly seen in [Star Wars: The Force Unleashed], appearing in the Raxus Prime level. After defeating a Junkyard Titan, Starkiller uses his force abilities to create a bridge out of one such ship, lodged in the piles of scrap that cover the planet.
