Special Abilities

Black Fireclaw: The Five had the ability to use wand like devices to emit Black Fireclaws, which could cause 6D damage. However this could be used to create pain, requiring Willpower to resist or the target could not act due to the pain, stun damage, or energy damage, each level built on the last, so targets who were killed, died screaming in pain.

Telepathy: Using their willpower, The Five could read minds and send messages across distances.

Illusions: Using their Willpower, The Five could create realistic illusions, although it is not known if these were physically manifested or just mental illusions. But these appeared to the targets to be completely real, causing the target to react to them as if the illusion was actually present in reality.

Move: 10

Description: The Five were a group of five beings who lived in a mysterious area of space known as the Hellhoop. They claimed to worship many dark deities such as the "Left-Handed God", the "Soulworm", and the "Lady with the Locust Heart", along with evil itself. They spent centuries subjecting those they captured to imprisonment, torture, and death.

One such group of captives included Han Solo, Leia Organa, and Chewbacca. Thinking Chewbacca to be nothing more than a mindless ape, they locked him away separate from the others, but he was able to free both himself and the other captives, including Wutzek, an ancient Force-sensitive demon. Wutzek proceeded to destroy every member of the Five and allowed Han, Leia, and Chewbacca to go free before destroying the Five's warship.

Five's warship
