Description: Sash Ketter was a human female pilot of the New Republic. She, along with pilots Trapper Wolf and Jib Dodger, was sent to follow a distress signal sent from a New Republic prison ship that had been infiltrated by mercenaries. Arriving at its location at a space station the three pilots identified a gunship being deployed and destroyed it, proceeding to fire on the space station after.

Sash Ketter was a human female who flew as a pilot for the New Republic's Starfighter Corps. In 9 ABY, She was part of a New Republic attack squadron with fellow pilots Trapper Wolf and Jib Dodger. Their duties included locating certain active New Republic tracking beacons.

One such beacon was activated by the New Republic soldier Davan when the New Republic prison ship he served on was infiltrated by several mercenaries. The beacon itself was then taken aboard the gunship Razor Crest and to a space station controlled by the criminal Ranzar Malk. Having followed the beacon, Ketter, Wolf and Dodger arrived before the space station on T-65B X-wing starfighters, passing the Razor Crest after they exited hyperspace. Wolf confirmed the beacons signal and identified a gunship which was preparing to launch from one of the stations hangars. Although this gunship was targeting the Razor Crest, Ketter and her squadron proceeded to fire on the hangar, destroying the ship. The trio then circled around station, firing on its exterior.

Personality and traits

Sash Ketter had light skin, black hair and brown eyes.

Equipment

Ketter wore an orange and white flight suit and a white K-22995 helmet with blue markings and two yellow Rebel Alliance starbirds.
