Description: The Class 546 Cruiser was a model of light cruiser, though it was also designated as a Lightspeed Cruiser. Resembling an Arquitens-class command cruiser of the Galactic Empire, the Class 546 Cruiser was used by an Imperial remnant led by Moff Gideon. Although similar to the command cruiser model, the Class 546 was significantly larger, and housed a large internal hangar bay that could be accessed by port and starboard hangar doors and a launch tube at the center of the vessel between the ship's two prongs. Its bridge was also different from the standard Arquitens-class models, and was equipped with three primary and four secondary sublight engines.

A Class 546 Cruiser served as the flagship of Moff Gideon and his fleet, and Gideon's light cruiser participated in a skirmish on Tython when it destroyed the Razor Crest gunship, and was boarded by a fire team led by the Mandalorian Din Djarin in an effort to rescue the Force-sensitive child, Grogu.
