Creatures D6 / Unidentified summa-verminotl

Name: Unidentified summa-verminoth subspecies
Classification: Summa-verminoth
Skin color: Black
Eye color: Yellow
Habitat: Space
Scale: Capital
Dexterity: 5D
Perception: 2D
Willpower: 9D
Strength: 5D

Special Abilities
Tentacles: Str+2D Damage.
Electrical Discharge:4D Ion Damage.
Mental Assault: This Summa-Verminoth Subspecies not only is extremely capable of physical attacks (although is rather large and ponderous), it can disable opponents by showing them images of their deaths. This vision is not a true image of how they die, but instead one based on their worst fear (so Darth Vader saw himself killed by Luke and replaced by his son as Palpatines apprentice). The Summa-Verminoth uses it's Willpower in a contested test against the targets Willpower, and if successful incapacitates the target for a number of rounds equal to the amount they failed the test by.

Move: 5 (Space Speed)
Size: Around 1km

Description: A space-faring creature, that was a subspecies of the summa-verminoth, resided in the Red Honeycomb Zone, a pathway through the Galactic Barrier between the Unknown Regions and the rest of the galaxy. The creature had a singlular eye, a large mouth, and numerous tentacles. While searching for the secrets of his master, Emperor Palpatine, the Sith Lord Darth Vader encountered the creature after exiting hyperspace before the Red Honeycomb Zone on his way to Exegol. The Sith assassin Ochi of Bestoon, trapped in an escape pod held beneath Vader's Eta-2 Actis-class light interceptor, urged him to jump to hyperspace, but Vader refused, intending to face the creature. He then proved himself able to tame and control it.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.