Description: Commander Nemet was a human male officer in the naval forces of the Galactic Empire. In 3 ABY, he served as tracking officer aboard the Imperial II-class Star Destroyer Avenger, a part of the Sith Lord Darth Vader's personal fleet, Death Squadron. The fleet searched for the secret base of the Alliance to Restore the Republic, culminating in the Battle of Hoth, after which the Avenger took part in the pursuit of the Millennium Falcon, a rebel vessel that escaped from the planet Hoth.

During the chase, the Falcon hid in the Hoth asteroid field and then escaped Imperial sensors by landing on the command tower of the Avenger. After the Star Destroyer's captain, Lorth Needa, ordered the Falcon be tracked, Nemet informed him that the vessel had vanished. Needa was then executed for losing the Falcon, which ultimately escaped from the Imperials.

Biography
The human male Nemet served as a member of the officer corps of the Imperial Navy of the Galactic Empire. In 3 ABY, he held the rank of commander and served as a tracking officer aboard the Imperial II-class Star Destroyer Avenger, under the command of Captain Lorth Needa. The Avenger was a part of Death Squadron, a fleet of Star Destroyers led by the Sith Lord Darth Vader in a search of the secret headquarters of the Alliance to Restore the Republic. When the headquarters was discovered on the planet Hoth, the Avenger was among the vessels that took part in the Imperial attack on the base.

The YT-1300 light freighter known as the Millennium Falcon was among the rebel craft to escape Hoth, and Vader ordered that the Avenger and other vessels pursue it, as it carried close allies of his son, Luke Skywalker. The freighter managed to hide for a time from the pursuing vessels within the Hoth asteroid field, but upon exiting the field, it encountered the Avenger, which had been patrolling the edge of the field. Failing to jump to hyperspace due to issues with the Falcon's hyperdrive, the freighter's captain, Han Solo, flew his ship directly at the Avenger while Nemet moved over to one of the crew pit consoles on the bridge of the Avenger. He was leaning over the shoulder of the bridge crew member at the console when the Falcon flew in close past the viewport of the bridge, causing the commander to quickly glance up out of the pit.

Solo then landed the Falcon on the Avenger's command tower, causing the freighter to disappear from the Star Destroyer's scanners. Needa immediately ordered that the freighter be tracked, but after checking his screen, Nemet reported the loss of the vehicle. He confirmed it after checking his screen again when Needa questioned if a vessel like the Falcon was large enough to have a cloaking device. Communications officer M'Kae then informed Needa that Vader wanted an update on the pursuit of the Falcon, and the captain left to apologize to Vader, who executed him for his failure. The Falcon ultimately managed to escape without alerting the Imperials, but was pursued by the bounty hunter Boba Fett.

Personality and traits
Nemet had fair skin, brown eyes, and brown hair.

Equipment
Nemet wore a standard olive-gray Imperial Navy officer's uniform, including a belt and a cap with an officer's disc. On his right breast, the commander bore a single code cylinder and a rank insignia plaque with two red squares above two blue.
