Planets D6 / Pabu

Name: Pabu
Suns: 1
Atmosphere: Breathable
Surface water: Ocean
Points of interest: Pabu
Fauna: Moon-yo, Pabu fish
Immigrated species: Aqualish (Quara), Arcona, Bith, Human, Rodian, Twi'lek
Primary language(s): Galactic Basic Standard

Description: Pabu was a planet host to a small remote island, which was a haven for refugees displaced during the Clone Wars and others after. Around 18 BBY, Clone Force 99 traveled to the location to reach Pabu, which was recommended by Phee Genoa as a place where Cid could not find them and where they could settle down with Omega. Genoa described the location as her "home away from home."

Places of Interest
Pabu Island
Pabu was a remote island located on the tropical planet Pabu. It was led by its mayor, Shep Hazard, and its inhabitants were mostly refugees from the Clone Wars. Although it had limited resources, Pabu provided a friendly atmosphere for refugees that was free of the presence of the Galactic Empire. Phee Genoa regarded it as her "home away from home."

The island experienced sea surges on occasion. As such, a large wall was built around Upper Pabu to protect it. However, after years, Pabu expanded into Lower Pabu as more inhabitants arrived.

Upper Pabu featured the Archium, which stored rescued artifacts from around the galaxy. It also housed the early warning system, which was used to alert the residents of a sea surge. Just outside the Archium was a large landing pad at the very top of the island.

By around 18 BBY, there had not been a major sea surge in almost thirty years. However, that year, the island experienced a series of tremors, which led to a large surge. The surge damaged most of Lower Pabu; however, all of the residents escaped to the safety of Upper Pabu with the help of Clone Force 99.

Lower Pabu
Lower Pabu was the newer part of the remote island on Pabu. It was wrecked around 18 BBY when a sea surge was caused by tremors under Pabu. However, its inhabitants were able to reach the safety of Upper Pabu with the help of Clone Force 99 and Phee Genoa.

Upper Pabu
Upper Pabu was the older part of the remote island on Pabu. It was home to the Archium and defended by a large seawall that protected the area from sea surges. In 18 BBY, when a sea surge damaged the newer part of the island, Lower Pabu, the islanders retreated here, aided by Clone

Force 99 and Phee Genoa.

Archium
The Archium was a structure in Upper Pabu, the older section of the remote island on Pabu. It housed artifacts from all over the galaxy, as well as an early warning system, which alerted the inhabitants of Pabu when the island was at risk of a sea surge.

---

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.