Description: A B2-series super battle droid of the Plazir-15 workforce went rogue around 9 ABY due to being reprogrammed by aggressive nano-droids planted in a batch of Nepenthé by commissioner Helgait. The droid came into contact with the spiked Nepenthé during one of its visits in the droid cantina "The Resistor", but the infection was not activated until later that day when the droid went to work on the loading docks. When kicked in the leg by the Mandalorian Din Djarin, who was at the time investigating the surge of malfunctions in the city along with Bo-Katan Kryze, the droid was enraged and punched Djarin, exposing itself as a rogue. It was then hunted down the streets of Plazir by the duo of Mandalorians, whom they attempted to escape by throwing pylons and tables at, until they caught up to it and destroyed it.
