GAME DESIGN NOTES:

While converting some ships from Star Wars D20 to D6, the proton torpedoes always converted their Damage to 10D instead of the usual 9D. To rectify this, I decided to make a Heavy version of the Proton Torpedo Launcher, and there already is a Heavy version of Concussion Missiles, so it made sense.

Then I got the idea that there could also be a "super-heavy" version, and here we go. GMs may wish to increase the weight cargo space for installation to make their players really think about whether they really want/need such a powerful weapon and if the trade-off is worth it.
