Gwirekon Pirates: Zero G Troopers

Gwirekon ZG Troopers are few in number but highly skilled. They wear a version of Space Stromtrooper armor with amgnetic couplers on the feet and a mini proton torbedo launcher and blaster cannon for armament. Often these troopers are employed when heavy resistance is encountered or expected. While pirate fighters distract the convoy's escorts, the ZG troopers rocket in and sue the magnetic couplers on their armor cling to the sides of hulls. From there they go about and plant charges on hatches along the ships's exterior to expose entire sections to vacuum to help minimize resitance once the boarding operation begins. From there, the ZG troopers can then also provide tactical data from inside the enemy lines to allow breakthroughs the ebst possible chance. Because their gear is so expensive and they are such elite troops the pirates try to keep them out in the field for as brief a time as possible to keep them safe.
