Planets D6 / Veelo

Name: Veelo
Atmosphere: Type III
Terrain: Swamps and waterlands
Points of interest: Sylar's hideout, Veelo docks
Fauna: Gryzard

Description: Veelo was a planet located in the galaxy. It had a Type III atmosphere which made it lethal for humans without protective breath masks. The surface consisted of severely polluted waters and swamps which could be traversed via hydroskiffs offered to travelers for a price in the Veelo docks, and teemed with dangerous gryzards. In 18 BBY, the bounty hunter Sylar Saris took refuge in a hideout on the planet after being targeted by his former bosses of the Haxion Brood, prompting fellow hunter Fennec Shand to come to the planet and hunt him down along with genetically defective clones Hunter and Wrecker.

Places of Interest

Sylar's hideout

Sylar Saris' hideout was a room built into a tree on Veelo. It had an escape tunnel leading to a hydroskiff for an escape route, and was guarded by sensor mines.
Around 18 BBY, rogue clones Hunter and Wrecker teamed up with bounty hunter Fennec Shand to find and capture the slippery insectoid. Hunter found the hideout and engaged in combat with the wanted bounty hunter, and Wrecker joined in the fight before Saris fled through the escape tunnel.

Veelo docks

The Veelo docks, also known as the Veelo refinery, was a refinery on the planet Veelo.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.