Characters D6 / Zeon Naval Officer

Zeon Naval Officer
The Zeons have established a large naval force to better control the space they seized from the Earth Federation. The Zeon Naval officer is a necessary part of the Zeon military. They help to keep the Earth Federation away from Side 3 (the group of colonies that is the seat of the Zeon government). The Zeons have far fewer types of ships than they do mobile suits, so specialization is really out of the question, however, most of these ships are incredibly powerful assault vessels.

Equipment: Zeon Naval Uniform, Rank Code Cylinder, Blaster (4D Damage), Zeon Medallion.

Background: You are calm and collected, unlike those hotrodding MS pilots. You know that the best way to beat the Federation is by waiting for the proper time and striking with a massive amount of force. This detached thinking hasn't made you any less fervent in your service to the Principality, you just aren't as obvious about it.

Personality: Cool, detached and aloof, many people think you are an aristocratic snob because of your demeanor. In reality, you care very much for the people under your command, but you realize that to refuse to send one's troops in to battle out of compassion is illogical. Some of your troops must die to ensure that the Principality of Zeon can endure. You also realize that you yourself may be called upon to give you life, and you are ready for that day, when it comes.
