Creatures D6 / The Bobs

The Bobs
========

The Bobs are small,bipedal creatures that inhabit several backwater worlds in the Outer Rim. They have fur covering their body, ranging in color from black to white, and have two sets of limbs: a powerful set of hind legs, and a pair of smaller fore legs which are used to grab food. Their face consists of a large nose resembling that of a human's, two beady eyes, and a mouth with two teeth protruding from it.

Their diet consists mainly of vegetables, much to the dismay of farmers residing on any planet the Bobs live. They eat meat once-in-a-while, but usually don't run around eating people unless pissed off or extremely hungry. They reproduce asexually, and give birth to usually about a half dozen Bobs at a time. Baby Bobs take 1-3 weeks to mature, depending on environment and what food is eaten. Due to farmers' protests, most Outer Rim governments will pay a 5 credit bounty to anyone who kills a Bob and brings a substantial piece of the carcass to an appropriate government office.
