Description: Snobbius Snee was a Keteerian pirate in the crew of Captain Silvo who took part in boarding a merchant freighter around 9 ABY. When the freighter's vault proved empty, the crew mutinied against Silvo, taking him prisoner and making the Shistavanen Brutus the new captain.

After Silvo escaped and was re-captured, he was put on trial on Brutus's frigate, where Snee announced that Brutus would deliver the verdict. Although the Shistavanen sentenced the former captain to death, Silvo convinced the crew to travel to the planet At Attin in search of an Old Republic mint during his Right of Last Appeal and so was spared.

At At Attin, Silvo killed Brutus and took command of the pirates again, gaining them entry through the Barrier that surrounded the world. During the pirates' subsequent invasion of the planet, Snee remained beside the pirate Gunter while he sat in the captain's chair on the bridge of the frigate. After the residents of At Attin sent a distress signal, a squadron of New Republic starfighters then arrived and shot down the frigate, with Snee fleeing from the ship's bridge as it crashed.

Biography

Boarding action

Snobbius Snee was a Keteerian pirate who served in the crew of Captain Silvo. During the reign of the New Republic around 9 ABY, they took part in a boarding action against a merchant freighter. Snee boarded the freighter through a drill-tipped boarding tube and attacked the merchant crew, throwing one opponent to the ground and then slashing them with a machete.

When the pirates discovered the freighter's vault to be empty, they mutinied against Silvo, having suffered several lean cycles and taken casualties in the attack. Silvo was taken prisoner and held in the brig on the asteroid Port Borgo but escaped.

The Rite of Last Appeal

After Silvo was re-captured on the planet Lanupa, the former captain was brought for trial on board the frigate of the pirates' new captain, the Shistavanen Brutus. With the other pirates gathered to watch, Snee announced from beside Brutus that the new captain would deliver his verdict, with the Shistavanen declaring Silvo guilty and sentencing him to death.

After the pirate Chaelt interrupted to remind Brutus that Silvo was owed the Right of Last Appeal under the Pirate's Code, the Shistavanen growled at Snee, who announced that the right would be honored and Silvo would be granted equal time to defend himself. Silvo then spoke of the pirates' shared hunger for wealth after a lifetime of fighting over scraps, promising them that he could provide them the means to generate their own wealth. Revealing an Old Republic credit, he claimed to have learned of an Old Republic Mint on the planet At Attin, having heard its location from the legendary pirate Tak Rennod.

Although Brutus pointed out that Rennod was dead, Silvo sang a shanty about Rennod and At Attin with the crew and received a cheer when he asked them to follow him to the treasure. With Silvo's equal time having finished, Snee moved down from beside Brutus into the crowd of pirates and grabbed a blaster rifle, following Silvo as he was dragged up to the new captain. Brutus then declared that they would travel to At Attin, but that Silvo would still be executed if the world proved a disappointment.

Invasion of At Attin

When the frigate arrived above At Attin, Snee was leant against a console talking to the pirate Gunter on the bridge. As the world was surrounded by a Barrier that appeared to be a toxic maelstrom, Brutus quickly moved to execute Silvo; however, the former captain convinced the pirates that the treasure lay hidden behind the Barrier. After they captured the Onyx Cinder, a starship able to pass through the Barrier, Silvo killed Brutus and retook his place of captain.

Silvo then traveled to the surface of At Attin on board the Onyx Cinder and forced Undersecretary Fara to allow the frigate through the Barrier and then contacted the bridge of the pirate ship via hologram. On the bridge, Snee was stood beside Gunter, who had taken the captain's chair, as Silvo gave Gunter orders to bring the frigate down to At Attin's surface. Once in At Attin's atmosphere, the frigate began firing on a city and deployed drop-teams in dropships to round up its residents.

Frigate's downfall
During the invasion, Snee remained on the bridge with Gunter and watched as he gave the order to fire on the Onyx Cinder when it took off from the city so that the At Attin resident KB could send a distress signal to the New Republic. Before the frigate could fire, KB's friend Neel fired a turbolaser from the city, destroying the frigate's main cannon and rocking the bridge, forcing Snee to steady themself to avoid falling over. KB succeeded in sending the signal and, once Fara and her colleague Wendle disabled the Barrier entirely, a squadron of New Republic starfighters arrived to confront the pirates.

A pair of New Republic A/SF-01 B-wing starfighters then shot down the frigate and Snee ignored Gunter's orders for those on the bridge to remain at their posts and fled from the bridge as the ship slowly plummeted toward the city where it crashed.

Personality and traits
Snee had brown skin and black eyes.

Equipment
Snee wore a black jacket lined with brown fur over a gray shirt and black pants with a brown pauldron on their left shoulder. Gold chain and a red sash hung from the Keteerian's belt and in combat they used a machete and a blaster rifle.
