Description: Mishko was the human assistant and art consultant to the wealthy Chandrilan oligarch Davo Sculdun. After she discovered that one of the pieces was a forgery Sculdun ordered her to have his entire collection re-appraised.

Biography
Mishko worked as an assistant to Davo Sculdun, a wealthy Chandrilan man that possessed an art gallery in his office on Coruscant. In 3 BBY Mishko discovered and informed Sculdun that the Coryio Chalice in his collection was a forgery. Despite Mishko's reassurance that even the best collections have occasional problems, Sculdun ordered that the entire collection be taken to be re-certified. Unbeknownst to either of them, Kleya Marki, a rebel member, was listening to them with a listening device she had planted in a different artifact that Sculdun had purchased. Mishko later visited the Galactic Antiquities and Objects of Interest, the shop where Marki worked and where Sculdun had bought the artifact with the listening device. While there Mishko confided in Marki about the issue with the forgery and that the entire collection was going to be examined following a party Sculdun was hosting during Senate Investiture week. At the party Mishko talked again with Marki about the stress she's been under with regard to the collection's re-appraisals.

Personality and traits
Mishko was a human with dark skin, brown eyes, black hair.

Equipment
While informing Sculdun of the forgery, Mishko wore a blue-green robe. Later she wore a purple and maroon robe along with large gold colored earrings when she visited the Galactic Antiquities gallery. During the investiture party Mishko wore a black and gold pattered dress with a large necklace and the gold same earrings.
