Description: Jeen was a technician that worked in the Imperial Senate Building during 2 BBY. The day before the Senator Mon Mothma delivered a speech denouncing the Ghorman Massacre in the Grand Convocation Chamber of the Imperial Senate they along with a fellow technician locked the door to a senate security closet and took its sequence key up to the senate security office. The following day they both were called to the door during the speech by a security official named Pono who was under orders to shutdown the senate broadcast of the speech. After informing him that they fixed the lock, as per protocol, and that he needed the sequence key, Pono rushed off to the office to get the key. After Pono left, Jeen shared a smile with their fellow technician.

Personality and traits

Jeen had dark skin, brown eyes and black hair. While working at the senate they kept their hair in a bun and wore a blue jumpsuit.
